You'll find hundreds of sports, recreation and cultural activities for all ages and interests. The Ville-Marie Borough offers all kinds of opportunities to have fun with your family and friends and enjoy your neighbours' company.

There is now Wi-Fi access in five parks and green spaces in the Borough, as well as in three especially popular areas: Old Montréal and around the Palais des congrès, the Village and the Quartier des spectacles. It's a great way to tell others about your discoveries and invite your friends to join you and share in the fun. You'll find plenty of things to see and do in this issue – enough to keep you busy for the months to come. Keep it handy, to make sure you don't miss anything going on in your Borough.

Foodies will be delighted to learn that street food trucks will be waiting at 11 different sites this summer, for your dining pleasure. You can keep track of their locations and hours on camionderue.com. In fact, you can even plan ahead and choose your picnic spot depending on the type of street food you like. Be adventurous! PORTRAIT: THE MUSEUM DISTRICT

An upscale environment

The early 20th century was an extravagant, exciting time in Montréal, and bequeathed us many splendid jewels that still attract thousands of visitors today. The Quartier du Musée, or museum district, set between downtown and Mount Royal, is one such neighbourhood with a rich architectural heritage.

The Montreal Museum of Fine Arts (MMFA), founded over a century and a half ago, was the key institution that local players turned to in an effort to spark development in the district. The MMFA was one of the first in North America to present a vast collection of ancient works of art. Its huge exhibitions have made it one of the city's most popular museums.

The district boasts an impressive heritage of high-end fashion boutiques and jewellers. Just minutes from downtown, in an upscale setting popular with Montrealers and tourists alike, it's the perfect spot to indulge in an afternoon of shopping or step back in time and admire the buildings from Belle Époque Montréal.

A jewel at the foot of the mountain

- Over 500,000 visitors every year to the Montreal Museum of Fine Arts
- Nearly 20 high-end fashion boutiques
- 10 art galleries
- A multitude of homes, luxury apartments and other buildings dating from Victorian times

22,000 residents in 2015*

- Growth of 39% since 2011
- 57% of residents are ages 20 to 44
- 18 residential projects carried out since 2011, for a total of 3,728 units*

Over 50,000 jobs

There are a number of major employers in the area: Concordia University, McGill University, Ritz-Carlton, Sofitel hotel

115,000 trips per day*

- 63% of people passing through the Museum district are 20 to 44 years old
- 46% are there to work and 21% to study
- 53% use public transit (7 million entries recorded in 2013 at the Peel metro station)
- 32% come by car
- 15% choose active transportation, like cycling or walking

Outlook

The Michal and Renata Hornstein Pavilion for Peace at the MMFA is to open this fall, thanks to an investment of $18.5 M. It will be devoted to the Old Masters and modern art. The city took the opportunity to renovate aging infrastructure and spruce up rue Bishop. It will be home to an "education-culture zone," a dynamic space that will not only physically reinforce the cultural and educational links between Concordia University and the Montreal Museum of Fine Arts, in particular with educational programs at the future Pavilion for Peace, but also beautify the surroundings, thanks to the addition of public art and an expanded sculpture garden. The cost of the infrastructure work, on the south side of rue Sherbrooke and on rue Bishop between boulevard De Maisonneuve and Sherbrooke, is estimated at $4.8 M. This will be a legacy of Montréal's 375th anniversary.

Some of the most famous people in the 20th century, including Winston Churchill, Queen Elizabeth II and the Rolling Stones, have stayed at the Ritz-Carlton, one of the city's most fashionable hotels.

ACTIVITIES ACCESSIBLE TO PEOPLE WITH FUNCTIONAL LIMITATIONS

AlterGo is an organization that promotes social inclusion for people with functional limitations. By working to eliminate obstacles, it has allowed many people to enjoy recreational pursuits, sports and culture. Once again this year, the organization has published Suivez le guide!, an essential reference for people with functional limitations. Available online. altergo.ca

HEALTHY EATING FOR ALL

Getting the proper nourishment is a basic human need. Unfortunately, despite all the progress we have made as a society, it remains a daily challenge for some people. The Borough is concerned about this issue, and has adopted a “food strategy” to promote food security and healthy eating among local residents. This commitment has led to an action plan covering all aspects of the food system.

The concept of a food system brings together different functions, from production to access, skills acquisition, waste management, mobilization and governance. Each one is a whole challenge in itself. By building on these functions, the Borough is striving to address different concerns:

- the local economy, by supporting food production, processing and distribution throughout the borough;
- the environment, by reducing the distance travelled by food and limiting perishable waste, and thereby reducing CO₂ emissions;
- social development, by providing better access to healthy local food at affordable prices, and improving residents’ individual and collective empowerment.

Now the Borough is ready to address the challenges of food security and healthy eating. What’s more, it will take an approach that respects the dignity and autonomy of all its citizens. For more information: ville.montreal.qc.ca/ville-marie

DEVELOPING A NOURISHING NEIGHBOURHOOD

Take a stroll around the Frontenac metro station and you’ll see some unusual activity on de Rouen and Dufresne avenues: the first steps leading to the creation of a “nourishing neighbourhood” in Sainte-Marie. A greenhouse, an activity space and community gardens will be sprouting up in fall 2016. There will also be an updated market just in front of the Frontenac Maison de la culture.

The goal is to encourage the production, processing and distribution of salad greens and other plants and seedlings in the community. More specifically:

- building and fitting out a community greenhouse, with fresh produce to be offered through various organizations;
- improving facilities at the Marché Solidaire Frontenac;
- offering training in urban agriculture and food independence for local residents;
- creating permanent and seasonal jobs.

Project development is being co-ordinated by the Corporation de développement communautaire Centre-Sud in co-operation with the Ville-Marie Borough, the Carrefour alimentaire Centre-Sud, Sentier Urbain and the Société écocitoyenne de Montréal.

For more information: quartiernourricier.org

For the third straight year, an awareness campaign will be reminding everyone of the importance of minimizing noise at night to respect others and maintain good relations between businesses and residents in different parts of the Ville-Marie Borough.

THE MURALS IN THE QUARTIER LATIN ARE SPEAKING TO YOU

Starting on June 18, you can download the PORTRAIT SONORE mobile app and enjoy a new way of appreciating the murals in Montréal's Quartier latin. You can listen to thirty sound and music clips as you tour the murals in the district, explaining both the artwork and the district itself.

The entire walking tour takes about two and a half hours and comprises three circuits, each one on a theme suited to the Quartier latin: literature, cultural creation, and nature in the heart of the city. The application is available on Android and iOS. It gives users free access to the entire PORTRAIT SONORE catalogue of podcast documentaries, on Canada's modern heritage, architecture and public art. The "Quartier latin – Murales" content is also available for computers, in French, from:  portraitsonore.org.

This project was made possible in collaboration with MU and the Ville-Marie Borough.

BUILDINGS AND HERITAGE

With the arrival of warm weather, it's a great time to give a facelift to your home's cornices, balconies, stairs, terraces, outdoor finishes and other architectural elements.

You, too, can contribute to enhancing the urban environment in your neighbourhood. Just make sure that your plans comply with local by-laws, by consulting the Règlements et permis section of the Borough website.

RAGWEED ON YOUR PROPERTY? RIP IT OUT!

Ragweed makes life miserable for the many people who are allergic to it. To prevent this weed from spreading, the Borough asks that you pull it out as soon as it starts growing on your property, and especially before it flowers.

Its finely toothed, narrow leaves are the same shade of green on both sides. Its stem is hairy. It stands from 10 to 100 cm high. It prefers dry, sunny spots and grows in poor soils, on the edges of sidewalks, lanes and vacant lots.

Regard inédit sur mon quartier

- Photos by Daniel Heikalo

Photographer Daniel Heikalo presents a series of photos of the Centre-Sud district of Montréal, where he grew up. Come roam through the streets of the Centre-Sud and see what makes it unique.

L'éloquence des objets • Exhibition by José Luis Torres

Made of photo collages, drawings and sculptural assemblies, this playful and intriguing exhibition relies on strategic high-jacking and recomposition. By exploring and successively manipulating objects, José Luis Torres presents singular situations created methodically and at random, analyzing the everyday roles of objects in our culture and focusing on the fact that they are also the means we use to create representations of ourselves.

Traces – Installations insulaires

• Installation by Dominique Leroux

The Magdalen Islands are a source of inspiration for multidisciplinary artist Dominique Leroux. In Traces, she has created a scenographic installation of movement and sound. The themes of insularity, solitude, intimate contact with nature, migration as a rite of passage, simplicity and transformation all immerse visitors in a space where their spirits can gently take wing and contemplate their surroundings.
